

REGIONS BROCHURE

You will create a travel brochure for one of the eight geographic regions of North America. Follow the directions below. Use only colored pencils when drawing and a pencil for writing.

Your brochure will be a trifold sheet of printer paper. You will be writing and drawing on four sides.

Side 1: Front Title Page – 4 points

Draw a picture across the front of your brochure that symbolizes your region. It should make it very clear what your region is all about. Be sure to draw neatly with your colored pencils. Clearly write the name of your region on the title page, too.

Side 2: Inside Map and Location Page - 4 points

Write where your geographic region is located. Use your notes to explain. If your region is between two other geographic regions, say which ones and in which direction they are from yours. If your region borders an ocean, say which one. If your region stretches across the continent, say where it stretches.

Draw a map to illustrate where your region is. Use your regions map on page #15 of your notes to help you. Be sure to color and label it.

Side 3: Inside Geographic Features Page – 4 points

List, describe, and draw each geographic feature found in your region. Use your notes to help you. If something specific is found there, like the Continental Divide or Death Valley, describe this place and why it is important.

Be sure to use your colored pencils when you draw.

Side 4: Inside Activity Page – 4 points

Write and draw two activities that can be done in your region. Examples include hiking, snowboarding, and swimming. What could someone do for fun on a vacation if they went to your region? Be creative – but your activity MUST HAVE SOMETHING TO DO WITH WHERE YOU ARE. You can't go scuba diving in the desert.

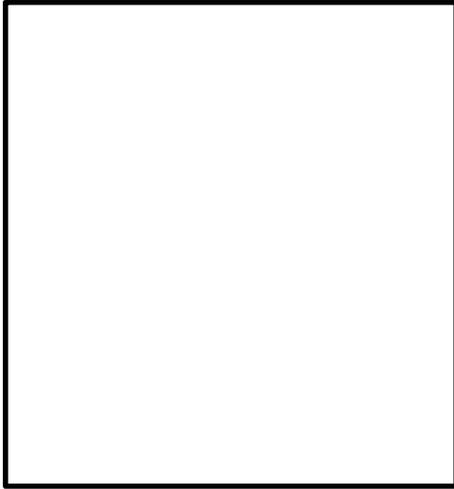

It would be a good idea to describe the geographic features the tourist can use to do these activities.

Be sure to use colored pencils when you draw your activities.

Side 5: Put your name, date, and block number on the page.
